RING RECEPTION FOR AN APPOINTMENT

From December 2017, cervical screening changed in Australia. The Pap test will be replaced with a new Cervical Screening Test every five years.

Cervical cancer is one of the most preventable cancers. The new cervical Screening Test is expected to protect up to 30% more women.

- A Cervical screening test will replace the Pap Test
- The screening age will change to between 25-74 years and the interval between routine tests to 5 years.
- Women will be reminded to have their first Cervical screening test two years from their last Pap test.
- The test looks for the presence of HPV and, if found, a reflex liquid based cytology (LBC) test is performed on the same sample to check for abnormal cervical cells.
- Introduction of self-collected option for eligible women aged 30 years and over.

If you have any questions you can make an appointment to see one of our General Practitioners or Josie in her clinic by calling 8569 0222.
